Information about the project

The project Nr. CZ.02.2.69/0.0/0.0/16_018/0002693 “Intercultural Dimension in PhD Programmes in Philology” (henceforth Intercultural Dimension) is focused on innovation and internationalization of 11 PhD programmes: English Linguistics, Literatures in English, Czech Literature, Czech Language, Germanic Languages, Germanic Literatures, General Linguistics, Romance Languages, Romance Literatures, Medieval Latin Language and Literature, and Narratology.

The project is being implemented from 1 September 2017 to 31 March 2021.

There are three directions in the process of doctoral studies innovation:

- promoting interdisciplinarity through courses shared across the participating departments;
- modernizing the PhD programmes through the creation of shared transversal modules: Applied and Experimental Linguistics for linguistically oriented programmes, Intermedia and Intercultural Communication for literature oriented programmes, and Historical Languages of the Czech Lands for the students of Medieval Latin Language and Literature, Czech Language, Czech Literature, and Germanic Languages;
- strengthening the international and intercultural dimensions of the programmes through cooperation with partner universities abroad, integrating international courses and academic internships into the curricula.

International study stay scholarship conditions

5 most accomplished students of the 11 innovated PhD programmes will receive a generous scholarship from the Operational Programme Research, Development and Education project “Intercultural dimension in PhD programmes in Philology” (CZ.02.2.69/0.0/0.0/16_018/0002693) for a study stay at one of the partner universities. The length of the stay is one semester (according to the host university schedule), with the maximum length being 6 months. The innovated PhD programmes open for students in September 2019; the selected students receive the scholarship to study at the partner universities in the 2nd or 3rd semester of their studies.

The applicants are required to meet the scholarship criteria. The scholarship recipients will be selected through a selection process (see p. 4 below).

The successful applicants sign an agreement pursuant to Section 1746 (2) of Act No. 89/2012 Coll., the Civil Code, as amended, or a participant’s contract. The agreement is prepared by the project manager, who also provides further information concerning funding and expense reporting.

The project scholarship is designed to cover all costs associated with studying abroad, namely:

- transportation (based on the actual cost of the tickets);
- monthly allowance to cover accommodation, meal expenses, and tuition fees.

The actual amount of the monthly allowance is determined by the host country and is calculated as the Erasmus+ monthly grant for the host country multiplied by the coefficient 1.5.

Documents required after returning from the stay:

- a report by the student;
- a report by the partner university (including grades and/or assessment by the teachers);
- a Confirmation of Studies letter from the partner university;
- a report by the PhD student’s supervisor.

Please contact the project manager for further details regarding the administration of funding.

Contact details:

Project manager: Ing. Dagmar Navrátilová navratilova@phil.muni.cz

Selection criteria

The students interested in the study stay scholarship should contact the programme guarantors or their supervisors.

The applicants for the project scholarship will be selected by a board consisting of the project team members and the project manager in a one-round competition. The board establishes the ranking of applicants, in which 1) the top applicants (who are required to be among the 20% most accomplished PhD students of the innovated programmes) will be eligible for the project scholarship, 2) the remaining applicants will receive funding for their stay from different sources (other Faculty of Arts scholarships).

The board will select applicants based on the following materials:

1. the applicant's dissertation project and the study stay plan, including the seminars, lectures and tutorials to be attended;
2. the applicant's supervisor's assessment of the benefits of the stay for the particular student; the applicant encloses this document, approved by the head of the corresponding doctoral committee, to their application;
3. the applicant's grades and publication history in the Masaryk University information system.

Points will be awarded based on the above listed documents as follows:

- the quality of the dissertation project (30 points);
- the study stay plan and its compatibility with the chosen partner university (30 points);
- publications (20 points);
- grades, study results (20 points).
